

Meet Jay Theisen

Jay Theisen is currently the clinic Manager at Human Services Inc.-New Generations. He was the clinical director and CEO of Generations Community Support Services prior to his work with HSI. In 2000, he started a day treatment program for children with FASD with St. Joseph's Home for Children. While at Generations he created groups for children with FASD and co-morbid mental health concerns in collaboration with MOFAS. He has been training with MOFAS and other community partners to deal with the mental health challenges related to FASD for the past 5 years.

To Schedule a Training with Jay

If you would like Jay to come talk to your group, please contact Angie Dyer at MOFAS at 218-340-6147 or angie@mofas.org.
